NZ Rural Health Strategy - Equity for Rural Whanau

Priorities for the Rural Health Strategy:

- Considering rural communities as a priority group – making sure the diverse needs of rural communities are considered in policy, planning and service decisions.
- Prevention: Paving the path to a healthier future – Shifting focus to prevention and addressing wider influences on health.
- Services are available closer to home for rural communities – shifting the balance towards more services being closer to home, through local provision, or services coming to the community through mobile or digital options.
- Rural communities are supported to access services at a distance – better support for when whānau do need to access care outside their community.
- A valued and flexible rural health workforce – growing and supporting the rural health workforce and expanding their capabilities to deliver the care needed by the community closer to home.
